DRY RIDGE

Nothing More Exciting Than Elopements.

Correspondent Writes About The Fairs And Gives News Of Past Week.

Dry Ridge, Aug. 19.—Once more our fairs have come and gone with nothing more exciting than a marriage in the floral-hall and two elopements from the fair at Taylorsville, and not even such mild sensations as these at Fern Creek, where, as usual, we had good displays in vegetables, fruits, cakes and fancy work; fine horses and mules, excellent music and the shadiest, coolest fair grounds in the State. Then the great pleasure of meeting old friends and relatives from a distance, also our neighbors and enjoying a bit of conversation with each and all of them. This, after all, is the greatest pleasure life holds as we grow older, therefore we look forward to the Fern Creek fair as the one place we must not fail to attend.

Miss Ida Boston secured either first or second premiums on every one of the eight exhibits she took to Taylorsville fair, while her sisters, Misses Sue and Pearl, were nearly as successful at Fern Creek, while not getting as many premiums, they came out fairly well. Miss Pearl, who according to my judgment, is the champion cake baker, received first prize on the only cake she exhibited. Mrs. Jim Neal secured a premium on a silk quilt which had carried off a ten dollar premium at Shelbyville fair. All of this makes us proud of "our folks," who can do fancy work, even if we can't.

We are having our share of hot weather and rains, getting some work done on road but we have a bridge staked off across Cane Run, and saw yesterday that they are making a regular boulevard of what has been a very bad piece of road just over the line in Spencer county. We have plenty to eat and no one is sick so there is nothing to complain of, but much to be thankful for this week.

Mr. K. S. Mills, of Seatonville, lost a fine young mule last week. Its death was caused by the mother tramping on its foot making a sore which developed into poison.

Mr. Howard Smith has just purchased a handsome two horse carriage and Mr. Roy Reid a rubber-tired buggy.

Mrs. Arch Tennell has her aunt, Mrs. Elsie Miller, and Mrs. Harvey Casey visiting her today.

Miss Annie Reid, Mrs. M. G. Boston and daughter, Katie Leah, spent a delightful day last Tuesday at the Blue Rock hotel as the guest of Mr. Leslie Seaton and wife, of Florida.

Mr. John Thomas Reid and bride, who was Miss Sue McMahan, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. J. B. Reid and family.

Mrs. Arch Tennell is entertaining her friend Miss Louise Uperman, of Louisville, during her two weeks' vacation.

Mr. J. R. Carrithers and family entertained Mrs. Van Davis, Mrs. Lee Davis and little daughter, Evelyn, and Mrs. Ernest Davis and daughter, Luella, last Friday.

Mr. Jim Neal and family delight fully entertained at dinner yesterday a number of their friends who attended church at Chapel and accompanied them home. Those present were Mr. K. S. Mills, wife and daughter, Miss Ethel and their guest from Louisville, Mrs. Lillie Fisher Stroeder, Mr. M. G. Boston, wife and children, Miss Lucretia Coates, of Portland, Mr. Charley Davis, wife and daughter and Mr. Guy Boston.

Mrs. and Mrs. Jake Pieck had as their guest last week Miss Lila Baggett, of Bluffton county.

Mr. Bardine Bridwell, wife, and daughter stayed at the fair at Taylorsville while attending the fair.

WOODBOURNE HEIGHTS.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Johnson spent Thursday at Fern Creek Fair.

Miss Mattie Thixton will arrive tomorrow to be with her aunt, Mrs. George Johnson.

Mr. Claude Forbes attended Fern Creek Fair last week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Briggs are at home after spending two weeks at Utica, Ind., the former's old home.

Mrs. Alpha Thixton returns this evening from a business trip to Indianapolis, Ind.

We regret very much to know that church thieves are busy in this neighborhood, having visited Mr. Myers Jean twice last week and we hope soon to hear of their being caught and punished accordingly. Quite a number from this vicinity attended the parade yesterday of the Catholic Federation. The floats were very beautiful and represented many incidents in religious and natural history. Fully 20,000 Catholics of all nations were in the parade. Chief Hollowhorn Bear, a Sioux Indian, rode by Charlie White-Monk and they were applauded by everybody.

Jeffersonton Commercial Club Plans Future Work—$100 Made at Fair.

The Jeffersonton Commercial Club held a meeting at Bruce Hall last Friday evening, the president, R. B. Smith, presiding. The various committees having the work in charge of conducting the big carnival in Jeffersonton week of August fifth reported and were discharged with thanks by the Club.

Owing to bad weather the net receipts from the carnival amounted to a little over $100. However the members of the Club feel that their efforts were not entirely in vain, and are confident that four or five hundred dollars would have been made had the weather been favorable. The Club is receiving encouragement from the people of this part of the county, and will, no doubt, pull off several big things in the future.

At the meeting, Friday night, a resolution was adopted authorizing the president to name a committee for the purpose of taking steps toward the erection of a school building in Jeffersonton Heights. Over a year ago the Jeffersonton Heights Land Company gave five acres of ground in its beautiful subdivision to the local school, provided a ten thousand dollar building was erected on the grounds within five years. As yet nothing has been done by the citizens of the community toward the building. Mr. John B. McFerran, one of the stockholders in the land company, having agreed to give all his profits from the sale of lots to the school, is holding something over $2,000 and ready to turn it over to the school board as soon as the school building is erected. The Commercial Club, willing to help in all matters that will build up the community, has appointed a committee that will find out what can be done.

Other things equally important were discussed at the meeting, among them being better mail service. Hon. Swager Sherley, representative in Congress from this district, has been written by a member of the Club and is now working on the proposition. It is planned to have the mail brought out from Louisville on the latest electric cars and instead of two mails a day to have four or five.

Carl A. Hummel having resigned as secretary of the Club on account of his work at the L. & N. office in Louisville, Clarence E. Alcorn was appointed in his place. The Club has been very successful this year and great things are expected in the future. The regular meetings are held the first Friday night in each month, and heretofore the public has been invited to attend.

Mrs. Chas. Weatherbee, Mrs. Green, of Louisville, Mrs. Talbert, Misses Mary Page Gaines, Luetta and Mildred Tatchell, Linnie and Viola Weatherbee, Jean Talbert, Master Thomas Carlton, and Chas. Talbert.

Miss Elizabeth Roman entertained at a six o'clock dinner Friday evening. Her decorations were ferns and sweet peas. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Arterburn, Mrs. Mason Gregg, Miss Maud Gregg and little Fae Gregg, of Parkland.

The Ladies' of the Christian church are making preparations to serve meals every day during the state fair. They will have a nice dining hall, electric fans, and plenty to eat will be served by the ladies.

The sale of W. T. Clore will take place Thursday, August 29th. Some beautiful bays and jersey cows will be sold at auction. The ladies of the Christian church will serve lunch with hot coffee at 15 cents.

Near Rochelle, Ill., an Indian went to sleep on a railroad track and was killed by the fast express. He paid for his carelessness with his life. Often it's that way when people neglect coughs and colds. Don't risk your life when a prompt cure of Dr. King's New Discovery will cure them, and so prevent a dangerous throat or lung trouble. "It completely cured me, in a short time, of a terrible cough that followed a severe attack of grip," writes J. R. Watts, of Florida, Tex., "and I regained 15 pounds in weight that I had lost." Quick, safe, reliable, as guaranteed. 50c per bottle free at all druggists.

Mrs. Lizzie Hays and daughter, Maud, have come to housekeeping on Second street in Louisville and will be glad to welcome their friends.

Mrs. S. C. Bell entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of her brother, Dr. H. P. Beeler, of Lafayette, La. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Standiford Beeler and daughter, Margaret Francis, Mesdames Blair Roberts, Margaret Beeler, Misses Georgia Brown, Ida and Edna Beeler, Laura Esque, Dr. H. P. Beeler, Messrs. Will Beeler, Andy Beeler and Charles Smithers.

R. E. Daugherty, of Louisville, will begin a series of meetings at Oak Grove Church of Christ the second Sunday in September. All are cordially invited.

Mrs. Ida Owen, of Shepherdsville, is with her mother, Mrs. Farris.

BASEBALL

Fanelli Bros. Defeated At Hands Of Strong Sapinskys, By Score of 8 to 1.

The Fanelli Brothers again suffered a defeat at the hands of the strong Sapinskys by the score of 8 to 1. The game was a one-sided affair, for the Hoosiers hit Monroe's delivery almost at will, securing twelve hits. The feature of the game was the all-around playing of the "Yiddish Lads" and the battling of Lucius and Finn, and the sensational fielding of Harris Manager Roemmele, who led the team with great success, resigned in favor of Harris and Lavis. These two boys know the game and will try to be as successful as ex-manager Roemmele. Sunday the Fanelli Brothers have arranged a game with one of the fastest teams in Louisville and is under big expense. Come and watch the new team, which the new managers will have on the field. Some root for the home team. Bring your horns and bells and have a good time.

HARRIS AND LAVIS, Mgrs. Fanelli Bros.

Dr. Thomas To Preach.

Dr. Frank M. Thomas, presiding elder of the Louisville district, will preach at the Jeffersonton Methodist church next Sunday morning, Sept. 25, at 11 o'clock. Dr. Thomas is one of the most eloquent speakers in the South. Everybody is given a cordial invitation to be present. The fourth quarterly conference will be announced later.

ROUND-UP

Of the News Around St. Matthews.

A. B. C. Writes Usual Good Letter of the Happenings of The Saints.

St. Matthews, Aug. 19.—Everybody and his wife went to Louisville yesterday to see the parade and reported it gorgeous—the very best ever in the city. Tho they sweated and melted, each one declared it was worth the effort. All are somewhat limp this morning, feeling much aggrieved about the work which never fails to be on hand whether we go or stay. This is more than "Blue Monday," rather royal purple hue, as we hustle around trying to make up for the time lost in recreation.

Planning to Open School.

Miss Amelia Seacore, from Shelbyville, is visiting Miss Tommie Greathouse in Elmwood avenue. Our beloved Miss Tommie is planning to open school next month in her usual energetic way. The assistant has been engaged and a full line of pupils expected.

New School Building.

There is a movement on foot to purchase a lot in Brown's Lane near Shelby pike. Indeed, the last report was that the deal was accomplished. A new brick, up-to-date school building will be erected with all modern conveniences, water, etc. This is, indeed, needed, as the school building at St. Matthews is too crowded.

Social Gatherings.

Mrs. Dr. Brady will entertain Miss Brown, Miss Hartman and Miss Anna Brady, from Indianapolis, this week. Oh! wouldn't it be fine if we could remain young girls always?

Visions of childhood, stay, oh! stay, Thou art so sweet and wild. But distant voices seem to say, It cannot be, they've passed away—Thou art no more a child.

Another entertainment for these visitors was given last Thursday evening at the residence of Miss Maybelle Rudy, which was a most enjoyable watermelon feast, beside the many pleasant features known to young folks.

Mr. Charles Stabler is at home among the Santly Crew from the Technical College in Georgia, and enjoying to the utmost all these festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearce Dodd and family have gone to North Carolina for several weeks.

Rev. Wm. Tharp spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Simcoe, after services at Beargrass church.

Unique Party.

A unique party was given by Mr. and Mrs. James H. Rudy at their residence in honor of Misses Hartman, Brown and Brady. Miss Mary Edinger, as receiving hostess, led off in her bright, witty style. Each one present was under obligation to do whatever was appointed as their part of the entertainment, that too, without preparation. These impromptu acts were amusing and entertaining, showing tact and talent. Miss Edith Hartman was excellent in her leap year proposal of marriage to Mr. Paul Arterburn, love, love, prepossessing and earnest, posing and promising in the real impossible way of all lovers, though a burlesque culminated in a sham marriage with ushers, etc., ceremony performed by Squire Dorsey and a kiss from the struggling bride as the fee. Robert Nanz brought the house in applause in a pillowcase for a hobbie skirt, showing how a girl can't get on a car, until he lifted it around his waist.

Rejoicing Over Arrival.

Mrs. George Drescher, in Chenoweth Lane, is being congratulated at the reception of a new little daughter. "Rejoice with those who rejoice" is the biblical admonition.

So Young And Gay.

Mr. Bronson Herr composed a song with music and words, viz:

When I go out to take a walk I am so young and gay, But have to take my dog along To keep the girls away.

Between acts the girls' private orchestra, playing ragtime music, covered with paper, home made zilliphoes. It was good merry music, too. After these performances refreshments were served and all were delighted with the evening's entertainment. A. B. C.

CRYSTAL

Wedding Of Mr. and Mrs. Surles Celebrated Last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon R. Surles celebrated their Crystal wedding in a most charming manner Saturday, August 18th, at their ragtime home "Bonnie-side." The lawn was beautifully illuminated with Japanese lanterns. Mr. Andrew Barnett, of Louisville, played a number of violin solos accompanied by Miss Laura Cardwell on the piano and Miss Nellie Williams, of Corydon, Ind., rendered some beautiful vocal selections. A solid course was served, followed later by ices, cakes and mints. Miss Clara Williams, of Corydon, Ind., presided at the punch bowl. Mr. and Mrs. Surles were the recipients of many valuable and handsome pieces of cut glass. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Jean, of Seatonville, Mrs. John Tharp, of Middletown, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hoskins, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Cardwell, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Blankenbaker, Mrs. E. V. Sprowl, Mrs. S. H. Blankenbaker, Misses Laura and Vera Cardwell, Augusta Blankenbaker, Katherine Hill, of Louisville, Nellie and Clara Williams, of Corydon, Ind., Martha Tharp, of Middletown, Irma Jean, of Seatonville, Messrs. W. H. Cardwell, B. H. Blankenbaker, William Hite, Corneilus Blankenbaker, Levi Hoke, Guy Mills, of Seatonville, Andrew Barnett, of Louisville, Walter Tharp, of Middletown.

All too quickly the tinea whiskered out of the main channel of the city's life, out beyond the Mohammedan mosque and the Christie hall and the Christian chapel, and into the soft, dense night of the countryside—a world of darkness sparsely studded with dim, glowing windows, and all too soon, again, it swung off from the highway into a private drive, crunched over gravel and stopped before the illuminated veranda of a native bungalow.

O'Rourke got down, discharged the driver and ascended the steps, a little puzzled to find no one waiting to welcome him, whether Sypher, Miss Pynsent, or at worst a servant. Surely he was expected. . . . But nobody appeared. The grating tires of the departing tikhagharri had made noise enough to apprise the household of the arrival of a guest, one would think. Nevertheless O'Rourke remained un greeted.

He stroked his chin, perplexed, wondering if by mischance the native driver had brought him to the wrong bungalow. But it was now too late to call him back and make sure. And this verandah, still and empty as it was, softly lighted by lanterns dependent from its roof, was to him a small oasis in a world of darkness. Without advice he was lost, could find his way no other where. He would have simply to wait, until by his own efforts he succeeded in quickening it. He tried to do this latter by the best of his ability by tapping a summons on the door-jamb. Through the wire insect-screens a broad hallway and a staircase leading to the upper floor were visible. Limp, cool-looking rugs concealed in pleasing color-schemes protected the hardwood flooring. To the right a door stood ajar and permitted a broad shaft of light to escape from the room beyond. On the other hand a similar door, likewise open, showed a dimmer glow. Two other doors were closed; O'Rourke assumed that they led to the kitchen offices.

Having waited a few moments without event, the Irishman knocked a second time, and would have knocked a third when he thought that it was glanced at his watch. It was only a matter of ten minutes after eight; strictly interpreting the intent of Sypher's invitation, he was a trifle ly revealed. And with an abrupt exclamation the adventurer entered, feeling for the revolver, to carry which had of late become habitual with him. The room was simply furnished, if tastefully. There was a grand piano near the veranda windows with a music rack and cabinet near by. Dispersed about the floor were a few comfortable chairs, a rug of rare Oriental texture, two consoles adorned with valuable porcelains. In the middle of the room stood a draped center-table littered with books and magazines; toward the back a long, flat-topped desk and against the rear wall, partially hidden by a folding screen of Japanese manufacture, now swept aside, was a small steel safe. Upon this O'Rourke's attention was centered. He remarked that it looked new and very strong; it was open, disclosing a variety of pigeonholes more or less occupied by docketed documents, and a smaller interior strong-box.

Between the desk and the safe a man lay prone and quite motionless. He was dressed for a ceremonious dinner, and apparently had been struck down in the act of stepping from his desk to the safe. For beyond all doubt he had been murdered. The haft of a knife protruded from his back, buried to its hilt just beneath his left shoulder-blade.

O'Rourke moved over to the body and lifted it by the shoulders, turning the face to the light. Then, with a low oath, he dropped it. A small sound, so slight as to be all but indistinguishable, penetrated O'Rourke's stupefaction. He stood erect, looking at the body, and then, as the noise resembled as much as anything the hushed cry of a child sobbing in sleep, soft and infinitely pathetic, he turned to scan its source elsewhere, he attributed it to the stricken man at his feet; and in a desperate hope that the pulse of life might be kept from ebbing, he knelt, withdrew the knife, turned the corpse upon its back, and laid his ear to its breast, above the heart. He voiced dispute, Sypher was dead.

"Poor devil!" muttered the Irishman. . . . "The Pool of Flame!"

CHAPTER XXXII.

For several minutes O'Rourke remained beside the body, making two notes the fact that one of the dead man's hands was tightly clenched, while the other lay half-open and limp. The former was closed upon a leather thong so stout as to resist any attempt to break it by main strength, so firmly held that the murderer had found it necessary to sever it with a knife. The knife itself was there, for proof of this; the sheen of light upon its mother-of-pearl handle caught the Irishman's eye.

Picking it up, he subjected it to a close examination that, however, gleaned no information. It was simply a small pocket penknife, little worn, with blades of German steel. It carried no identifying marks and told nothing as to the name of the assassin. It had been a European; a native would never have bothered with so ineffectual a thing when a sturdy weapon, serviceable alike for offense and defense, would have served its purpose equally well.

From this he turned to the dagger which he had taken from the body; a stiletto with a plain ebony handle, unmarked, unscratched, apparently fresh from the dealer's showcase. It meant nothing, save that it indicated still more strongly that the murderer was most probably not a native. A Greek or an Italian, a Genoese sailor, a native of Southern France—say a seafaring man out of Marseilles—might have carried it.

"Oho!" said O'Rourke, speculative. "A Frenchman, maybe!"

He got up, satisfied that he would learn nothing more by continuing his search of the solicitor's body. The mental link between the fact of the crime and its perpetrator was inevitable; O'Rourke believed implicitly that Sypher had been murdered by Dea Treche masquerading as "De Hyeres." And he could have done himself an injury in the impotent fury aroused by realization that he had permitted himself to be so chivalrously hoodwinked, despite the suspicions he had entertained of the so-called "De Hyeres." He felt himself responsible, since he had neglected to warn Sypher. It had been on his tongue's tip that afternoon, when Sypher himself had diverted the warning by his request that the O'Rourke could more comfortably spit his yarn after they had dined.

"Poor devil!" said the adventurer again. He stopped to spread his handkerchief over the starting, pitiful face. "And poor, poor young woman!"

He was startled by the thought of her; for the first time he entered into comprehension, until then bounded by the hard and fast fact of the murder. Now instantly his concern about the crime was resolved into solicitude for the girl. What could have happened to her? What had become of the servants, whose sudden desertion had left the house so statelyly quiet?

Swept on by a fever of anxiety on the girl's behalf, O'Rourke glanced quickly about the study to assure himself that he had overlooked nothing of importance, then passed out into the main hall or reception-room. Here the most searching inspection revealed nothing amiss. He moved on to the other room on the main floor and found himself in the dining-room; here again all was in perfect order.

Beyond All Doubt, He Had Been Murdered.

early. Presumably the servants were all out of earshot, preoccupied with preparations for the meal; while Sypher and his niece were most probably still dressing.

With an impatient air O'Rourke turned back to the veranda. A hammock in one corner was swaying idly in the breeze. A number of wicker armchairs stood about, invitingly furnished with cushions. O'Rourke selected one and disposed himself to wait.

After five minutes he frowned thoughtfully and lit a cigarette.

"Patih, 'tis a fine surprise he's given me," he said, irresolute. "But it can't be premeditated insult. Why should it be? And they can't be out. 'Tis so; I am I bet that driver; more than likely this will be the wrong house entirely. That must be the trouble. I'll just go, quietly fold up my tent and decamp before the inhabitants, if any there be, discover me and run me off the premises."

But at the head of the steps, with foot poised to descend, something restrained him; it would be difficult to say what, unless it were the unbroken, steadfast, uneasy quiet. "I'll have a look," he determined suddenly; "perhaps . . ."

He turned to the right and stopped before a long open window, looking into what seemed to be a music room and library combined. Brilliantly illuminated by hanging lamps of unusual brilliancy, the interior was

NEW SCHOOL FOR JEFFERSONTOWN.

Failing to have an election called for the purpose of taking a vote on the school bond question in Jefferson county, it is now up to the citizens of this district to get busy and build a school on Jefferson Heights. After waiting a year for the bond issue and then neglecting to have the election called does not speak well for the people here, but that is no reason why something cannot be done if the school patrons go to work now.

The Jeffersonian has always been in favor of bonding the county for the purpose of building schools. After it was figured that the tax would be only ten cents on the one hundred dollars it seemed to us that nothing could be better. It is always a difficult matter, however, to vote a tax upon the people, no matter how small the tax, nor how great the benefits. We do not believe that the bond question would get a two-third majority in Jefferson county, should the vote be taken in November, and now since it can not be taken until November of next year, it is necessary for the people of this community to put up the money and build the school themselves. To keep the site the building must be erected within five years from June, 1911. If the people wait on the bond issue till November, 1913, they will stand little chance to derive any benefit from that source, as they would not have sufficient time, even if the proposition carried, which is not likely.

The Jeffersontown Commercial Club has appointed a committee to investigate the question of building the school, and will probably ask for contributions. We believe this the thing to do. If subscriptions sufficient to erect the building are received, then the school can be turned over to the County Board of Education and maintained by the county. If a graded school is established among the school districts in this section the burden of taxation would fall upon a few, but if the school is built by private subscriptions the school board would have to keep up the school just like it is keeping up the present school. And in the event the bond issue is put into effect there will be no harm done.

There are residents living within two miles of Jeffersontown able to contribute at least one thousand dollars each toward this school, and we believe they will. Why shouldn't they? Some of them spend from five hundred to one thousand dollars on barns to house their stock—how much more are the children of the community worth to them? There are others that could well afford to invest (for it is an investment) at least one hundred dollars in a proposition like this. Few there are who ought to contribute less than fifty dollars.

If the people of this section do their duty in this matter a handsome school building will be erected on the lovely grounds in Jefferson Heights in less than five years. The question is—will they do it?

FIGHT ON THE COUNTY MAGISTRATES.

The Louisville Herald is making a fight upon the county magistrates and the system under which they work. It says:

"It is ridiculous that this rich county should be governed by a group of men so utterly lacking in fitness as that which comprises the Squires. Of course the people have themselves to blame. They have patiently tolerated the system, and they elected the men who now occupy the offices. But now that their attention is forcibly centered upon this evil, we hope there will be developed an intelligent programme leading to genuine and permanent reform."

The Fiscal Court of Jefferson county is as intelligent as any Fiscal Court in the State, and the system in existence here is the same in every county in Kentucky. Why make a personal fight upon the gentlemen composing the Fiscal Court of Jefferson County? If the system is bad, fight the system—not the magistrates unless they are guilty of some wrong that you can prove.

There may be a better way to build roads than the present way. There is room for improvement in every system of government. Before a charge is made, however, something better should be suggested. There is so much graft in "high places" that the people are pretty well satisfied when they govern themselves.

Tell us the reason for doing away with the Squires' courts, where the people may go and settle their little differences among themselves—not having to go to a higher court where a big lawyer's fee is to be paid and where the costs are ten times as great. Tell us who is better qualified to build roads and make improvements in roads than the men who have made road building a study and who reside in the district in which the money is to be used on the roads. Can it be high-salaried city men who know nothing of conditions in the country and could not tell one rock from another?

The system of road building could be and ought to be, improved, but in making changes in the way of doing things great thought and care should be taken lest we "jump from the frying pan into the fire." Something like $250,000 is expended annually on the roads in Jefferson county. Let one or two men have charge of this much money and there will be more room for charges of "graft" than ever before. The people pay the taxes—why can they not be represented by a man from their own district? Each magistrate is elected by a vote of the people, and Jefferson county must have pretty good ones, as they hold office so long.

'SQUIRE WHEELER NOT SO BAD.

After declaring that "it is ridiculous" to be governed by men like we have in the Jefferson county Fiscal Court, the Louisville Herald Monday states that conditions can be "remedied greatly if men of Squire Wheeler's good sense will take hold of them and use the opportunity they enjoy to establish a higher standard of conduct and a clearer certainty of justice."

The Magistrates' offices are inspected annually by the State Auditor, or one of his deputies, and under the Republican, as well as the Democratic rule. Mr. Wheeler's accounts and records have been found to be correct in every respect. If the Squires had been guilty of wrong doing, it appears to us that the examiner would have found it out.

GREATEST IN HISTORY.

Tenth Annual State Fair, Sept. 9-14, Will Mark an Epoch.

With the greatest array of exhibits in live stock as well as of all other products of which the state is famous already guaranteed for the Kentucky State Fair this year, it is the prediction of those in charge of the arrangements that the exhibition to be held the week of Sept. 9-14, inclusive, will be the biggest and best ever seen in the south or middle west and that it will mark an epoch in the history of agricultural and live stock exhibitions. Not since the Kentucky State Fair was inaugurated ten years ago has the same amount of interest been shown in the event as that being taken this year by the officials and the public spirited citizens of the state, insuring the greatest Fair, from an artistic and display standpoint at least, in the history of the association.

One of the most important improvements will be that of the enlarged grand stand, which, when completed the latter part of August, will be twice the size of the stand that has been used to accommodate the crowds the past four years. The new stand, the construction as the part now standing, and when completed the stand will have a seating capacity of 5,000 people.

Martyrdom of the Bride.
A peculiar and barbaric marriage custom of the Kalye women of Africa consists in the martyrdom of the bride, who, clad in her wedding finery, stands, through an entire morning against a pillar in the village square, her eyes closed, her arms pressed to her sides and with only the narrow base of the column for a foothold, the while a stupor of villagers criticizes and comment on her appearance—Argonaut.

ENCAMPMENT

Of Farmer Boys at Kentucky
State Fair—Competition Open
For Boys 15 to 18.

Mr. James L. Dent, Secretary of the Kentucky State Fair, writes us that boys from about fifty counties have made application and submitted essays in competition for the Farmer Boys' Encampment at the Kentucky State Fair during the week of September 9th-14th at Louisville. No papers have as yet been passed upon, so competition is still open to all boys between the ages of 15 and 18 years who will apply to him for blanks or to the County School Superintendent. This should be done at once as papers should be in the hands of the committee as soon as possible. The boy winning gets a free trip from the time he leaves his station until he returns, including transportation, board, entrance to the Fair, besides the instruction that is given by members of the faculty of the Agricultural Department of the State University.

THE FOLDED LAMBS.

Gently gather the lambs in the fold. All together at close of day: Since early morn they have wandered far Now they are tired of frolic and play. Safe in the fold you count them over. The lambs are lost, not one has strayed. Then content you can turn and leave them. For the folded lambs you are not afraid. So when the gentle, tender Shepherd Comes for the lambs he loveth best, Why do you hold them to your bosoms? Why do you weep so sore distressed? Know you not they are safe forever. Is a fairer land than has yet been told? And though for a while you do not see them, They are safe in the Heavenly fold.

Stivers, county superintendent, has been busy arranging matters and seeing that everything is in line shape. The commencement for county school graduates took place at the Louisville Girls' High School Wednesday, and about eighty students received diplomas.

Prevent Typhoid Fever.

There are a large number of typhoid fever cases reported in this neighborhood and the cause is attributed to bad water and filthy alleys and streets. Jefferson County is about as free from anything of this kind as any town in the state, but there are a few residents who neglect to think about these things. There is a town ordinance prohibiting weeds and filth on the streets and alleys, and hog pens are to be kept in a sanitary condition. We are satisfied that if Marshal Frank Tyler's attention is called to violation of the law he will see that the trouble is remedied. Everybody should help in trying to keep a healthy town. If slop water or other filth is thrown in the alleys the Marshal should "get busy."

Held For Arson.

Sidney Parish, a negro youth, was held to the grand jury Tuesday by Judge Weissinger under a $2,000 bond for arson. Parish was accused some time ago of setting fire to his father's house near the overhead bridge on the Tucker Station road, and shooting his sister from which wounds she died. An examination trial was held after the fire before Judge Way and the charge of murder against the little negro was dismissed on the grounds that the evidence did not justify holding him to the grand jury. After the examination trial the citizens again took up the case and had the boy arrested on the charge of setting fire to the house. The boy denied that he intended shooting his sister.

Where Your Money Will Yield You Ever-Growing Cash Profits

Opportunities Come and Go

NO MAN OR WOMAN displays good business foresight that passes up or takes up with every opportunity that comes their way. But wise are they that have the disposition to take nothing for granted, but investigate for themselves—see with their own eyes—find out beyond a shadow of doubt, that things are as they are said to be.

That's Just What We Want.

WE ARE HONEST in our convictions and beliefs; and we want to, and WILL, deal honestly and squarely with you. We want you to investigate us and our proposition—we will gladly prove to your satisfaction our every claim. We can't in this advertisement—that's why we ask you to write for full information.

It Is An Honest Fact.

HERE IS AN unusual opportunity for men and women of moderate means to combine their savings with the money of others in a non-taxable, non-assessable investment, increasing in cash profits and value each year.

If you have only a small amount of money to invest, your chances for getting in on the "ground floor" of the best cash profit-paying enterprises are very scarce. About the best you can do with a small amount is a loan at 6% or a 3% time deposit in your bank, you paying on either investment the same rate of tax per dollar as the big investor whose money yields him 10% to 40%.

How It Came About.

LOUISVILLE and Jefferson County are gravely in need of a new cemetery, for all but one is overcrowded. That one is so rapidly filling up that the prices for its choicest lots are practically prohibitive except to the wealthy class, then too, it is surrounded by the city that further expansion is impracticable and all but this one are sectarian, open only to members of their own congregation.

Even with the present death rate in Louisville and suburbs, burial places must be provided for approximately 4,500 each year, and with the steady increase in population, at least fifty thousand within the next ten years. This is a cold, hard-headed existing fact; and when we realize the situation, we bought a 240 acre tract of land near the city limits and started Evergreen Cemetery.

Landscape Artist At Work.

THE LANDSCAPE Artist is at work now in laying off the tract in conformity with the approved modern methods adopted by successful Lawn Cemeteries of the East; with drives; walks, boulevards, artificial lakes and other up-to-date equipment.

All Big Successes.

OTHER LAWN Cemeteries, all big successes. Mount Royal Cemetery, Pittsburg, has been open to the public for only nine years and has paid nine dividends. Detroit, Michigan, has four profit sharing cemeteries, all dividend payers. The shares in Rosedale and Linde Park Cemeteries near New York City went from par ($25) to $75 in three years. Woodlawn Cemetery, New York, pays 40% in yearly dividends, and its shares when offered at all, bring $175. for each $20. share, (par value) Other similar instances can be given.

A People's Proposition.

THE GREATER the number of shareholders, the greater the influence and efforts for the sale of lots. And the more sales of lots, the quicker and greater the profits.

The possibilities for profits from lot sales in Evergreen Cemetery are so great that only two hundred lots need be sold the first year to yield a net profit of more than 6%, but it is confidently believed that within a year from the first burial, a 10% dividend can be declared.

Get full information now. Don't delay.

A Safe-Guarded Investment.

THE Evergreen Cemetery Company, a strong safeguarded Louisville and Jefferson County enterprise, offers you an opportunity for a safe and profitable non-taxable and non-assessable investment, in which you will be assured of a net profit of at least 10% each year, with a reasonable probability of a steady advance to 25% to 30% every year on your money, for a life-time. It is safe-guarded by real estate, the best security in the world. In fact, it is a real estate proposition itself, under the management of clean, honest, conservative and successful business men of this county and State.

Easy Payments for You.
